DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry

[ATSDR-12]

Request for Comments on Hazardous Substances Nominated for Toxicological Evaluation

AGENCY: Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), Public Health Service (PHS), Department of Health and Human Services (HHS).

ACTION: Request for Comments.

SUMMARY: On July 11, 1989, the Hazardous Waste Information Evaluation Subcommittee (HWIES) of the PHS Committee to Coordinate Environmental Health and Related Programs met to review six hazardous substances for possible toxicology studies by the National Toxicology Program (NTP) under funding from ATSDR. These six hazardous substances have been tested for toxicity, by the NTP, under prechronic conditions and are being considered for placement on a list for possible long-term testing. With this notice, ATSDR solicits public comments on the six hazardous substances listed herein.

DATE AND ADDRESS: Written comments bearing docket control number ATSDR-12 should be submitted by January 11, 1990 to: Dr. Barry L. Johnson, Assistant Administrator, Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry, and Chairman, Hazardous Waste Information Evaluation Subcommittee, 1600 Clifton Road, NE, E-28, Atlanta, Georgia 30333, (404) 639-0700.

All written comments on this notice will be available for public inspection at ATSDR, Building 37, Executive Park Drive, NE, Atlanta, Georgia, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, except legal holidays.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 104(i)(5)(A) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980, as amended (CERCLA or Superfund) (42 U.S.C. 9601 et seq.), requires ATSDR to conduct health assessments of sites on or proposed for inclusion on the National Priorities List established by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). ATSDR's health assessments involve the evaluation of environmental contamination and of toxicological, demographic, and human health data in order to characterize public health implications of individual hazardous waste sites. Where gaps in toxicological information exist, ATSDR sponsors studies at the NTP to address the gaps. ATSDR seeks advice and recommendations from HWIES on which hazardous substances should be studied and the types of studies to be performed by NTP. Hazardous substances are nominated to HWIES by agencies with statutory responsibilities under CERCLA. Each substance is reviewed by HWIES and recommendations are provided to ATSDR concerning the need for toxicological testing.

Nominated hazardous substances are published with request for comments in the Federal Register to encourage public participation in the HWIES evaluation process. Through this process, HWIES can make better informed decisions whether to select, defer, or reject hazardous substances for toxicology study. Comments and secondary data submitted in response to this request are reviewed and summarized by HWIES and forwarded to ATSDR and NTP for further evaluation.

On July 11, 1989, HWIES evaluated six chemicals nominated by EPA for toxicology studies. The following table lists the chemicals and their Chemical Abstract Service (CAS) registry numbers.

(ATSDR-25)

Hazardous Substances Recommended for Toxicological Evaluation

AGENCY: Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR), Public Health Service (PHS), Department of Health and Human Services (HHS).

ACTION: Notice of recommendations of substances for testing.

SUMMARY: This notice serves to announce recommendations concerning the selection of chemicals for further toxicological testing to be conducted by the National Toxicology Program (NTP). These nominations are based on: (1) The recommendations of the Hazardous Waste Information Evaluation Subcommittee (HWIES) of the Public Health Service Committee to Coordinate Environmental Health and Related Programs and (2) comments received as a result of the October 13, 1989, Federal Register notice (54 FR 42042) requesting comments on the six chemicals. These six substances have been tested for toxicity by the NTP under prechronic conditions.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 104(i)(5)(A) of the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), 42 U.S.C. 9604(1)(5)(A), as amended, requires ATSDR to conduct health assessments of sites on or proposed for inclusion on the National Priorities List established by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). ATSDR's health assessments involve the evaluation of environmental contamination and of toxicological, demographic, and human health data in order to characterize public health implications of individual hazardous waste sites. In some cases where gaps in toxicological information exist, ATSDR sponsors studies at the NTP to address the gaps. ATSDR seeks advice and recommendations from HWIES on which hazardous substances should be studied and the types of studies to be performed by NTP. Hazardous substances are nominated to HWIES by agencies with statutory responsibilities under CERCLA. Each substance is reviewed by HWIES and recommendations are provided to ATSDR concerning the need for toxicological testing.

A request for comments and information about the nominated hazardous substances is published in the Federal Register to encourage public participation in the HWIES evaluation process. Through this process, HWIES can make better informed decisions whether to select, defer, or reject hazardous substances for toxicological study. Comments and secondary data received are reviewed and summarized by HWIES and forwarded to ATSDR and NTP for further evaluation.

The HWIES convened on July 11, 1989, to discuss the chemicals that would be reviewed for chronic studies. After publishing the October 13, 1989, Federal Register notice (54 FR 42042), the Committee reconvened April 5, 1990, to recommend chemicals for chronic testing. Based on information received, the following recommendations were made to ATSDR:

- 1,2-Dichloroethane, CAS No. 107-06-2, was recommended for chronic study (medium priority). This recommendation was based on its continued high production volume; high potential for human exposure in occupational settings and in the general environment, and especially through ground water contamination caused by this material migrating from hazardous waste sites; discrepancies in and among previously conducted chronic studies; and lack of scientifically credible chronic studies using nonbolus oral administration of this substance.

Because of the physical-chemical properties of 1,2-dichloroethane, the Committee recommended that NTP continue to explore means to stabilize this substance to ensure that the desired dose be biologically available to test animals in the various treatment groups proposed for the chronic experiment.

- n-Hexane, CAS No. 110-54-3, was recommended for chronic study (low priority) because it is a widely used industrial solvent and it is found at waste sites. It was further noted that Ames mutagenicity testing has been uniformly negative, but some studies have shown chromosome aberrations (chromatid breaks) in bone marrow cells of rats administered n-hexane by inhalation.

- Pentachlorobenzene, CAS No. 500-93-5, was recommended for chronic study (low priority). Pentachlorobenzene has been used as a pesticide precursor and as a flame retardant. It is practically insoluble in water, but has been found in surface and ground water and drinking water near toxic waste dumpsites. It is ubiquitous, persistent, and presents a potential for long term, but low level, exposure to a large population.

Pentachlorobenzene has been found in human adipose tissue and can bioaccumulate in the body. In subchronic feeding studies Pentachlorobenzene is toxic at about 2000 ppm to the liver, kidney, lungs and thyroid in rats, and liver in mice.

- Acetone, CAS No. 67-64-1, was not recommended for further testing. This chemical was tested in drinking water studies. The results from these studies show that acetone is only mildly toxic to rats and mice when administered in high concentrations in drinking water for 13 weeks. Minimal toxic doses were estimated to be 20,000 ppm acetone for male rats and male mice and 50,000 ppm acetone for female mice. No toxic effects were identified for female rats.

- Hexachloro-1,3-Butadiene (HCBD), CAS No. 87-68-3, was not recommended for further testing. HCBD is found in the environment, and it and/or its metabolites are mutagenic or carcinogenic in certain bioassays. Currently there is a relatively high level of research interest in the compound, both as a nephrotoxin and as a mutagen/carcinogen. Although further chronic bioassays in rats might be used to define more clearly the dose response for carcinogenicity, it is not clear that it would enhance the ability to assess accurately human risk better than work already going on in the area of metabolism and mutagenicity.

- 1,2,4,5-Tetrachlorobenzene (TCB), CAS No. 95-94-3, was not recommended for further testing. Human data have shown an association between a cluster of chromosomal aberrations and work in a plant producing 1,2,4,5-TCB.

Subchronic studies in rodents have revealed liver, kidney, lung, thyroid and possibly lymphoid tissues to be targets. The extent of the environmental problem is unclear, due to the lack of specific identification of 1,2,4,5-TCB in environmental and biological samples. The Committee recommended that more extensive sampling and an assay with improved chemical methods be done before prioritizing the need for chronic or carcinogenesis testing of this compound.
